REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Gibbon's Dispensary,

KEARNEY STREET, [illegible] COMMERCIAL, [illegible] Established in 1854 [for the treatment] of Sexual and [illegible] such as Gonorrhea, Stricture, Syphilis in [all its forms], Seminal Weakness, [illegible] Skin Diseases (of [illegible]) and Ulcerated Legs [illegible]

[DR. GIBB]ON has the pleasure of announcing that he [has returned] from visiting the principal Hospitals of [Europe, and] resumed practice at his Dispensary, [illegible], corner of Commercial, San Francisco, [his] patients and those requiring his services.

[He] has spared neither time nor money in seeking [new] remedies, and has returned with [illegible] the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

[Thousands] of persons, both male and female, who are suffering out a miserable existence [from the] effects of secret indulgence or from [illegible] Look at their pallid, emaciated faces and their broken down [illegible] [illegible] for the happiness of [illegible] life. In this horrid [illegible] the [illegible] the grave. Let [illegible] attend to these who are [illegible] cured before it be too late. [Apply immedi]ately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has [ma]de of this a special study for years, and who cures the most inveterate cases without mercury or injurious drugs. It is important to those [affli]cted, or to those who are interested in the [illegible] to be [illegible] of the many [illegible] who in fact all cities, publishing [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the [illegible] the names of eminent physicians [illegible] other places [illegible] or you may fall into the [illegible]

The New York World's Opinion of General Grant in 1865.

[From the World, April 11 1865.]

General Grant's history should teach us to discriminate better than we Americans are apt to do between little and solid work. Our [illegible] after demagogues and spouters may find a wholesome corrective in the study of such a character as this. The qualities by which great things are accomplished are here seen to have no necessary connection with showy and superficial accomplishments. When the mass of men look upon such a character, they may learn a truer respect for themselves and each other; they are taught by it that high qualities and great abilities are consistent with the simplicity of taste, contempt for parade, and plainness of manners with which direct and earnest men have a strong natural sympathy. Ulysses Grant the tanner, Ulysses Grant, the unsuccessful applicant for the post of City Surveyor of St. Louis, Ulysses Grant, the drayman [illegible] that city of his two horse team with a load of wood to sell, had within him every manly quality which will cause the name of Lieutenant General Grant to live for ever in history. His career is a lesson in practical democracy; it is a quiet satire on the dandyism, the puppyism, and the shallow affectation of our fashionable exquisites as well as upon the swagger of our plausible, glib-tongued demagogues. Not by any means that great qualities are inconsistent with cultivated manners and a fluent elocution, but that such superficial accomplishments are no measure of worth or ability.

General Grant's last brilliant campaign sets the final seal upon his reputation. It stamps him as the superior of his able antagonist as well as of the commanders who have served with or under him in the great campaigns of the last year. It is not necessary to sacrifice any part of their well earned reputations to his. Sherman and Sheridan deserve all that has been said in their praise, but there has never been a time since Grant was made Lieutenant General, when anybody but Sherman on our side could have been classed with him. Since Sherman's bold march through Georgia and his capture of Savannah and Charleston there have been many who in their strong admiration of his great achievements inclined to rank him as the greater General of the two. That judgment we take it is now reversed by the court of final appeal, not by [illegible] the reputation of Sherman, which suffers no just abatement, but by the expansion into grander proportions of that of Grant.

Grant stands pre-eminent among all the Generals who have led our armies in the late war in that he has exhibited the utmost strength of will of which the highest type of manhood is capable. The defences of Vicksburg and the defences of Richmond were both deemed impregnable and were defended with a proportionable confidence and obstinacy but they both yielded at last to Grant's matchless persistence and unequaled strategy. And in both cases he not only took the long [contested] position [illegible] relief of the whole force defending them. Nothing could be more clean and complete even in imagination than General Grant's masterly execution. He did not merely in each case acquire a position which was the key of a wider theater of operations; he did not merely beat or disable the opposing force; he left no fragment of it in existence except as prisoners of war subject to his disposal.

If anybody is so obtuse or so wrong headed as to see nothing great in General Grant beyond his marvelous tenacity of will, let that doubter explain if he can, how it has happened that, since Grant rose to high command, this quality has always been exerted in conspicuous energy precisely at the point on which everything in his whole sphere of operations hinged. There has been no display of great qualities on small occasions, no expenditure of herculean effort to accomplish objects not of the first magnitude. It is only a very clear sighted and a very comprehensive mind that could always thus have laid the whole emphasis of an indomitable soul so precisely on the emphatic place. How, if he be not a General of the first order of intellect as well as of the most heroic determination, does it happen that, in assigning great and brilliant parts to his subordinate commanders, he has never, when the results of his strategy were fully unfolded, appeared in the picture except as the central figure? However it may seem during the progress of one of his great combined campaigns, it always turns out at last when it reaches that completeness and finish in which he contrives to have his campaigns end that we see him standing in the fore-ground, and that the grouping is always such that the glory of the other Generals instead of eclipsing his own gives it additional lustre. It is this sureness of judgment which sees precisely where lies the turning point, which sees precisely what are the objects that justify the utmost stretch of persistence; it is this ability to take in the whole field of view in just perspective and due subordination of parts, that is the mark of a superior mind. General Grant has taken out of the hands of all critics the question whether it belongs to him. He has won his greatest triumph over the most skillful and accomplished General on the other side, over a General who foiled him long enough to prove his great mastery of the art of war, and the completeness of whose defeat is a testimony to Grant's genius such as a victory over any other General of the Confederacy, or even an earlier victory over Lee himself, could not have given. Apply to General Grant what test you will, measure him by the magnitude of the obstacles he has surmounted, by the value of the positions he has gained, by the fame of the antagonist over whom he has triumphed, by the achievement of his most illustrious co-workers, by the sureness with which he directs his indomitable energy to the vital point which is the key of a vast field of operations, or by that supreme test of consummate ability, the absolute completeness of his results, and he vindicates his claim to stand next after Napoleon and Wellington among the great soldiers of this century, if not on a level with the latter.

Progress in Japan.

The Empire of Japan is composed of three thousand eight hundred and fifty islands, containing a population of thirty four millions. The Government is of the most arbitrary and despotic character, and is founded upon the principles of ancient feudalism. From the earliest periods of which we have record, the nation has been exclusive in almost everything which concerned its internal policy and its commercial relations with other people. Formerly it would not recognize the Ambassadors of civilized European and American [nations], regarding these nations as barbarians. Jealous of all other nationalities the Japanese authorities placed restrictions upon the communication of their inhabitants with the outside world. For centuries it was found impossible to obtain information in regard to their municipal regulations while only the most common facts relating to the habits of the people [illegible] the most [illegible] traveler.

The [illegible] revolution in the internal policy [illegible] [illegible] when [illegible] degree [illegible] all the [illegible] power, the Dutch alone having enjoyed this privilege, [illegible] the year 1611.

There [illegible] districts of Japan and the great proportion of the population [illegible]. These people are no better than serfs and have been dependent for their liberty on the pleasure of the Daimios, or petty princes. There have been several hundred of these lords mostly descendants of their kings who at one period maintained independent sovereignty. The power of the Daimios was greatly restricted in the sixteenth century by Taiko Sama, the reigning king. This able ruler carried on a long and bloody civil war with his nobles and when fortune declared in his favor he raised himself to imperial power. Since then there has been a strong central authority that has kept in subjection both the nobles and their retainers.

The reforms introduced by Taiko Sama gave a more settled Government to Japan and the Central power became established on a secure foundation. The last barrier to this result was removed by the overthrow of the Tycoon, who divided the honors and likewise the responsibility with the Mikado.

The present Mikado or Emperor of Japan has manifested a willingness to throw open the whole country to foreign intercourse. Should this wise resolution prevail we may soon expect to reap more extended benefits from the commercial relations that promise to follow so auspicious a beginning. Even now numerous Japanese youth are being educated in our principal colleges, while the nation seems ready to adopt many of the habits and customs with which we have made them acquainted by the limited intercourse that has already taken place between us.

The Japanese are the most proficient of Eastern nations in many of the arts of civilized life. Among these is their knowledge of the raising of silkworms and the manufacture of silk. This employment has been understood by them ever since the fifth century. Rice and tea are two of their principal agricultural products and they are skillful in the working of metals and making various wares. Some of these manufactures are not only useful but wrought after the most approved models of symmetrical beauty.

Telegraphic communication has already been established between Russia and Japan. Wires are now in working order for the conveyance of messages between St. Petersburg and Nagasaki, a distance of nearly two thousand miles. Is it too much to expect that before many years a like communication will be established between San Francisco and the Island Empire?

A sect of native Christians has existed in Japan from the earliest period, but until within the last few years they have been subjected to the most cruel indignities and persecutions. The efforts of the ruling power, according to recent report, foreshadow exemption to this sect from such difficulties in future, and a disposition to do away with many of the pagan rites and ceremonies pertaining to the ancient faith of the mass of the inhabitants. This endeavor however promises to bring about a struggle with the priests who are already apprehensive of danger to their former prerogatives and the influence it enabled them to exert for their personal aggrandizement.

The Mikado of Japan has ordered the closing of the Buddhist temples and the priests, like the monks of England in the days of the Reformation, will have either to starve or earn an honest livelihood. [illegible] where superstition and feudalism have [illegible] held sway over a semi-civilized race this is a delicate and dangerous exercise of imperial power. The decree it appears has caused little excitement in the cities, but was regarded as intolerable in the rural districts. The disendowed priests will doubtless help to fan the flame of discontent and may yet succeed in seriously endangering the throne of the Mikado. Institutions venerable from age cannot be overturned without convulsion. This has been shown in the history of all great reforms, both civil and religious.

Fisk's Murderer.

THE CAREER OF EDWARD S. STOKES.

[From the New York Herald, January [illegible]]

Edward S. Stokes was born in Philadelphia in the year 1841 and is now in his thirty first year. His parents were people in very comfortable circumstances and moved in the best society in the Quaker City. When quite a young lad he came to this city with his family and many of our oldest citizens will remember the firm of Stokes & Dudlong, the principal member of the firm being the father of Edward S. Stokes. Stokes was always in early life fond of athletic sports, and until lately was considered a good gymnast by those who knew him best. He was educated at the High School in Philadelphia, and received a first class English and Latin education. He was and very proficient in his studies. He was with his father's firm in the provision business in Chambers street, in this city at an early age and manifested great energy and business tact. He had one great fault, however. His blood was hot and being of a nervous sanguine temperament, he was liable at any moment to break out when he deemed himself imposed upon or outraged. He has always been sensitive to an insult and quick to resent an injury. Stokes is 5 feet 9 inches high, and weighs about 140 pounds. He is slight built but is very wiry and active on his feet. In conversation he talks quickly and to the point, and hurries his affairs through as rapidly as possible. Stokes is a man of

FINE PERSONAL APPEARANCE.

Of dark complexion with piercing black eyes and regular features. His hair which was yet black a couple of years ago is now partly gray, and were it not for his active movements he would pass for a man of 45 years. Mr. Stokes married a lady of good family some ten years ago, and and has by her one child, a very beautiful girl of 9 years of age. In June of last year Mrs. Stokes, who was in bad health, visited Europe to seek some benefit from the mineral springs of Central Germany, and when last heard from, as late as December 3d, was in Paris. The family while in New York had an elegant suite of rooms at the Worth House, corner of Fifth avenue and Twenty sixth street. These apartments were furnished with every article of luxury and refinement that taste could devise or that money could buy. Nearly a year and a half ago Mr. Stokes

BECAME ACQUAINTED WITH MR. FISK,

and through the introduction of the latter he made the acquaintance of Helen Josephine Mansfield. An intimacy sprang up between the two which has resulted in the shooting of James Fisk, yesterday evening at the Grand Central Hotel. This fatal intimacy was the cause of serious trouble between Edward Stokes and his wife. It is hard to tell if there is any real feeling of affection on the part of Helen Mansfield toward Edward S. Stokes, but last evening she confessed herself too unwell to see anyone. Everyone in New York is, of course, familiar with [illegible] suits of the three principals, Fisk, Mansfield and Stokes—which have furnished [illegible] the newspaper columns for a year [illegible]. Stokes has always asserted that Fisk had

of $200,000 accumulated [illegible] business which was the joint property [of] Edward Stokes and his mother. He was arrested by Fisk last year and locked up to answer [a] charge which was made against him of fraud. The charge fell to the ground, and Stokes [illegible] Fisk for false imprisonment. The [illegible] continued in the courts [illegible] while Fisk has had all the power of [illegible] railway corporation at his back the funds of Stokes have been decreasing day by day owing to the fact that he had [illegible] to carry on the suits. Stokes has expended in lawyers fees during the last twelve months nearly $[illegible],000, and this contest has [illegible] him [illegible]

[illegible]

He has often said [illegible] This is a fearful [illegible] and I haven't [illegible] give up till I [illegible] were he endeavoring to make a [illegible] in the eyes of the people of New York [illegible] will not yield one [illegible] my rights [illegible] of the money which belongs to [illegible]. He also has frequently stated that he was afraid of being assassinated by some of Mr. Fisk's employees, and has shown the writer a pistol which he carried in his pocket to defend himself if attacked. In addition, he has always night and day had some friend [illegible] to prevent attack, as he said he did not wish to be taken by surprise as Samuel Bowles was some time since in this city. The quarrel between the two men has been very much embittered by the woman Mansfield, who has served to fan the embers of the feud whenever it was dying out.

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

The Honolulu Friend, established January 18, 1843, claims to be and probably is the oldest paper on the Pacific—that is to say as we understand it on the west coast or the islands of the north Pacific ocean.

Do all in your power to teach your children self government. If a child is passionate teach him by patient and gentle means to curb his temper; if he is greedy, cultivate liberality in him; if he is selfish, promote generosity.

Recently a physician in San Francisco married in a way that was distasteful to part of the population and they mobbed him. Unfortunately there was no shotgun on the premises and he was unable to teach them to mind their own business.

A few days ago a man carried a challenge to mortal combat to a Jacksonville brewer, who as soon as he read the message, turned to and whipped the bearer in a rough and tumble fight, and then asked "May be some more of dem vants to make drombles mit me?"

There is no deep or hidden mystery to be studied or practiced to carry on business successfully; on the contrary all that any honest, legitimate concern, demanded by the public wants, requires, is fair judgment, close industry, unwavering integrity, superior workmanship, fair prices, and to do better by the customer if possible than others can do by theirs—and give it publicly.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature of California making each county liable for the damages done by mobs of whatever nature the damages may be. Already it is held that municipalities are liable for such damages, at least to some extent. The county of Los Angeles for instance ought to make good all the losses which are capable of being compensated of the onslaught upon the Chinese in Los Angeles not long ago.

Deer Lodge New Northwest, Montana, Jan 13th: C. Bennett returned a few days since from the famous Jefferson silver mines, 20 miles from Helena, where he has been prospecting for the past two months. Mr. B. and his partner have succeeded in discovering what bids fair to be one of the richest and most extensive veins found in this country for some time past. They have sunk on it about twelve feet and at that depth have a body of almost solid galena some twenty-one feet in width which assays from $60 to $100 per ton in silver, and increases in richness with the depth.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE

Rev. Henry Blodget, of China, has just completed a seven years' work in revising a translation of the Acts of the Apostles in Chinese.

The Congregational Church at Forest Grove has, we learn, extended a call to Rev. H. Lyman, now Professor of Mathematics in Pacific University, to become its pastor. He has the matter under advisement.

Edwin F. Bachelder, of Mansfield, Mass., bequeathed his whole property, $60,000, to the American Bible Society. Every scholar in the public schools of this country is to receive a Bible. A Christian widow in Boston left $20,000 for the Bible Society.

German advices represent that the excitement in Bavaria with reference to the Dollinger movement is increasing. On the death of a citizen, who adhered to the old Catholic party, Catholic burial was denied him by the Church, but the Government ordered that a church be opened, and the burial took place amid great feeling.

A missionary census of India is to be taken. A committee of four gentlemen has been chosen from as many Protestant bodies, and they will send a series of questions to the principal missionary at each Protestant station in India asking him to report the age of the mission, the number of its converts during the last ten years, the amount of money received from England, the contributions of native Christians and other particulars.

Among the other things attempted by Don Pedro, the Emperor of Brazil, during his sojourn in Europe, has been that of trying to bring about a reconciliation of the Pope with the present King of Italy. A correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says: "In the first interview that took place between the Pope and the Emperor, the latter spoke long, warmly and eloquently of the necessity of a reconciliation. The Pope, after listening attentively to him, said 'Very well, my dear Don Pedro, d'Alcantara, people say you are a philosopher, and I believe it. Consult your books, and when you find in any one of them that the day unites itself with the night bring the work to me, and I shall have a precedent for the reconciliation you advocate.'"

The Presbyterians.

The New York Evangelist recently gave a thorough historical sketch of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. In another article it reviews the home missionary work of the denomination. Following is a summary:

Last year there were in the employ of the board 1,233 missionaries, who labored in thirty four States and Territories, performing an aggregate of 965 years of ministerial service. One hundred and fifty-six churches were organized during the year, 5,258 persons were hopefully converted, and 11,017 connected themselves with the missionary churches—6,080 on profession of faith. Three hundred and forty Sunday schools were organized during the year, making an aggregate of 1,378, with 90,276 members. New Jersey is the banner State for Presbyterianism. It has 237 churches and 37,8[illegible] communicants, or one to every twenty four inhabitants. New York has the largest Presbyterian membership—106,024, or one to every forty one inhabitants. It has 712 churches. Pennsylvania has 793 churches, but their average membership is smaller than that of the New York churches. The total membership is 104,402, or one to every thirty-three inhabitants. These three States contain more than half the entire membership of the Church and contribute three fourths of the money raised for home missions. Ohio has [illegible] churches and [illegible] communicants, one to every forty five inhabitants. Illinois has [illegible] churches with [illegible] communicants, one to every seventy two inhabitants. In the remaining Western States the Presbyterian membership averages [about] one to 100 inhabitants. Nearly all the Presbyterian churches in Ohio and westward, except in the larger cities, have had home missionary aid.

It is gravely announced in an Eastern paper that President Grant has paid the tax on his farm near St. Louis for 1871, amounting to $409 39. We trust that the Democracy will make no party capital out of this fact.

OREGON

The house of J. C. Skaggs, in Douglas county, was destroyed by fire one day last week. Among his losses were $1[illegible] in greenbacks.

The State Temperance Convention will assemble at Salem to day (Thursday). Delegates began to arrive on Tuesday. The Convention will no doubt be a large one.

The river has fallen considerably at Salem. All the streams flowing into the upper Wallamet are receding. The lower Wallamet is still rising, caused mainly by the rising in the Columbia.

The head quarters of Lieut. Moss at Fort Klamath were destroyed by fire on the 27th of January, with most of the contents. There was a ball in the house the previous evening, the guests retiring at a late hour. The fire occurred about daybreak, and it was thought to have originated from a defect in the chimney.

A Roseburg paper says: The difficulty of crossing the Robert's hill, nine miles south of this place, has induced the Engineers to run a trial line on the west side of the river to test the practicability of reaching Cow creek on that side. They are also running a line north from the crossing, through Looking Glass to connect at Wilbur. The country south from Robert's hill to Rogue river presents a fine opportunity for a display of engineering skill, and the road will necessarily cost an immense amount of money.

It seems that the Fay Rills case in all its bearings never will be over. A correspondent writes this from Jacksonville: "Our Circuit Court convened last Monday, the 12th inst. The only case of importance on the docket is the Geo. Tribble case, who was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the present term for perjury. He, however, did not appear. Early Monday morning a report was in circulation that a dispatch had been received announcing his death at St. Louis, Mo., but I hear of none who believe it. It is supposed to be a dodge on the part of his friends to release his bondsmen. This however, is unnecessary, for the Grand Jury found no bill, as was anticipated by the Sentinel. There is considerable dissatisfaction in relation to this case, as the evidence was very strong against him. This morning, hand bills are posted over town announcing his death in a very comical manner."

PERSONAL NOTES

The finest private mansion in the world is said to be that of George W. Childs of the Philadelphia Ledger. It is situated at the corner of Walnut and Twenty third streets in that city.

Mrs. Laura De Force Gordon, who was in Oregon last year, has arrived in Washington, where she met with a cordial reception. She is styled "The Youthful Stanton of the Pacific Coast."

The New York Commercial says: Of all the dirty looking "jolly tars" that ever landed at this port, those of his Imperial Majesty, the Czar of Russia, are about the dirtiest. They are so to that degree that it would be an unpardonable barbarity to wash them while the cold weather lasts.

There are new revelations about Joaquin Miller. It appears from a San Francisco letter to the Yreka Journal that he has with him at the first named city a girl fourteen or fifteen years old who, he says, is his daughter, her mother being a Modoc Indian. What new sensation about Joaquin will next appear?

A Chicago dispatch of the 9th inst. says: Peter Cartwright, the celebrated and venerable Methodist preacher, was struck with paralysis on Monday, and is now helpless and speechless at home in Sangamon county, Illinois. Death is likely to occur at any moment. He is eighty seven years old and has been a minister of the gospel for 68 years.

THE TERRITORIES.

A man named John Brown, of Deer Lodge, Montana, perished in a recent snow storm. His remains have not been discovered.

At Helena, Montana, recently, the ladies got up a fair for the benefit of the Methodist Church, which yielded the large sum of $2,640.

The Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake must be a good one for acoustic purposes, judging from the following from the Salt Lake News of February 3d: Before commencing his lecture last night, Professor Fowler said "I do not know how this roof came to be shaped as it is shaped, but I firmly believe that if this room had been extended for a quarter of a mile beyond its present length, and filled with people, every person present could be made to hear distinctly. I have long thought that in this style of building is embodied a principle by which an audience of any number could be made to hear a speaker without difficulty."

How Easy to Assume a Virtue!

Audacity of assurance not unfrequently manifests itself in the superlative degree, and rises to undisputed sublimity It can so far outface simple hardihood or common "cheek," as to put either to confusion We can t imagine what romancer now could for a moment contend with our neighbor of the Herald George Francis Train must give way We purpose in a few extracts from that paper to show our readers something that they never saw equaled Here is the first one

> The New York Tammany thieves, it is now clear, made a very great mistake in selecting the party under whose patronage they hoped to profit by official stealing

Seeing that they did profit by official stealing as no thieves ever prospered before we think it doubtful after all, whether they made a mistake in selecting the party under whose patronage they could best do it We quote again

> They had for years seen Radical officeholders steal from Uncle Sam by the million, and instead of being punished and disgraced as thieves the guilty parties had been toasted and petted and caressed and honored as great and worthy men. Seeing these things the Tammanyites thought that they might practice the same kind of morals and profit by a like line of rascality, in the Democratic party But they soon found out that they had made a sad mistake They had chosen the wrong party

People who read this are not expected to restrain their laughter, or even to look grave In view of developed facts, such a piece of writing is so exceedingly grotesque that laughter must hold both his sides, and beg a little respite before the next piece is presented The party that produced Tammany and was ruled by Tammany during the long years of Tammany's corruption when detected and exposed turns about professing virtue and delivering maxims on political morality A blush on the cheek of immodesty is no longer a thing to wonder at But we quote once more

> The Tammany thieves who dishonored the name of Democracy are disgraced, denounced and punished by the party

As Truthful James would say, can these things be? Who exposed the Tammany thieves? Republicans. Who defended them as long as it was possible to defend them? Democrats Who carried the election in the State of New York against them? Republicans Who elected the head thief Tweed, to the State Senate by eleven thousand majority, with all the accumulated dishonors of his robberies upon him and with 'all his crimes broad blown as fresh as May?' Democrats Not a Democratic paper in Oregon denounced the Tammany thieves till after they were beaten in the election, though the full evidence of their crimes had been published to the world months before

To carry along its statement the Herald speaks repeatedly of Tom Murphy, late Collector of the port of New York, as a "Radical thief" who "amassed a fortune" by his peculations, Unfortunately for our neighbor the proof of this allegation is as difficult to obtain as that of Tammany's robberies is open and conclusive. Murphy, as a politician, is not a man to inspire respect; but there is no proof whatever that he ever defrauded the Government. The charge that he had done so he completely refuted, and it has long since been abandoned

Merely to Oblige

The Herald prints this, and entreats to know what we have to say about it

> The Louisville Ledger slings the following at Mr. Grant's defenders and apologists 'Will the New York [illegible] the Louisville Courier Journal deny to [illegible] on the 22d day of May, 1869, John [illegible] Jones, of Chicago, deeded to President Grant [illegible] seven acres of land in Cook county, [illegible] that on the same day, John Russell Jones was appointed Minister to Belgium? Or shall we be obliged to publish a certified copy of the deed, now on file in this office?'

Merely to oblige our neighbor, we have to say that no mind except one "cabined, cribbed and confined" by the narrowest ideas of partisanship, would suppose for a moment that there was the smallest atom of truth in the paragraph It is to observed that the "certified copy" of the deed is not forthcoming, it has not been given to the public, and of course never will be But can any one suppose that it would be withheld for a moment if it were in possession of any Democratic newspaper in the United States? There would be no threats about publishing it, it would be published at once Of course, Mr Jones might have conveyed land to Gen. Grant on the very day on which the former was appointed Minister to Belgium, without there being anything at all improper in the transaction Such a coincidence, without explanation, might however, lead to malicious criticism But inasmuch as it has not been shown that any such transaction ever occurred, it is not necessary to multiply words about it All the attacks made upon the integrity of the President are irresponsible libels like this,—the work of irresponsible libellers Those papers which are most reckless of truth, first invent them, and then the rest of the party organs hand them round as facts On this subject we don't think we have anything more to say, and we will trust that the Herald is satisfied with what we have said

Our "Overmatched" Negotiators

It was asserted by the whole Democratic press, when the Treaty of Washington was framed, that our Commissioners were overreached by the superior tact and diplomatic skill of the Commissioners on the part of Great Britain There was much lamentation about the Treaty, and it was pointed at as a signal proof of the incapacity of a "feeble and corrupt administration. It was the misfortune of the country "under Radical rule," so the mournful story ran that the ablest men were sent into retirement and charlatans were elevated to the highest stations Hence the business of the country suffered, and the nation was disgraced and degraded. The eminent British statesmen who sat on the Joint High Commission overmatched the feeble and incompetent agents who had charge of the interests and honor of the United States But what could be expected from a Radical Administration?

This was the talk a few months ago We have lately seen the sequel It is presumed that no one now on either side of the Atlantic will pretend that the agents of the United States were deceived misled or overreached in the negotiation at Washington The English certainly, have awakened to a realization of the facts By them it is now universally admitted that the Americans gained great advantages Wonderful excitement has resulted from the discovery that the British Commissioners were not equal to what their country required of them, and that they were circumvented by the sagacity of the Commissioners on the part of the United States Even the Democratic press of this country is beginning to make a similar discovery and now we find the organs of that party expressing a hope that our Government will not push the advantages which it has gained by the superior management of its servants but allow Great Britain to get off without paying [illegible]. They think it "dangerous" to press the matter and hope the Government will be "prudent" But it is impossible to oblige those who are always on the wrong side of every question

A National Park

The bill to set apart the region of wonders in Montana as a National Park has passed both branches of Congress It is [illegible] that no region in the world contains an equal wealth of natural curiosities The Helena (Montana) Herald says that the idea of a park was first conceived by a party from that place who visited the wonder land in 1870 and gave to the world the first reliable reports concerning it Descriptive letters were published by members of this party and were widely circulated by the press of the country These excited not merely a passing curiosity but created a living general interest that has since received strength and larger proportions by the publication of Lieutenant Doane's official report to the War Department of the same expedition, followed, as that was by the expedition of Professor Hayden, during the last summer under the patronage of the Smithsonian Institute, with its fully appointed corps of scientific gentlemen and distinguished artists, whose reports have more than confirmed all descriptions of former parties Such, in brief, has been the origin and progress of this project now about to receive a definite and permanent shape in the establishment of a National Park It will be a park worthy of the Great Republic It will embrace about 2,500 square miles, and include the great canyon, the falls and lake of the Yellowstone, with a score of other magnificent lakes, the great geyser basin of the Madison, and thousands of mineral and boiling springs Should the whole surface of the earth be gleaned, another spot of equal dimensions could not be found that contains on such a magnificent scale one-half of the attractions here grouped together Without a doubt the Northern Pacific Railroad will have a branch track penetrating this Plutonian region, and few seasons will pass before excursion trains will daily be sweeping into this great park thousands of the curious from all parts of the world A steamboat will be plying upon the crystal waters of Yellowstone lake, and excited sportsmen will be decoying the speckled beauties from its depths or aiming for the swans, geese, ducks or gulls that heretofore have floated undisturbed upon its surface The Helena Herald advises those who would look upon this scene in its wild primitive beauty, before art has practiced any of its tricks upon nature, to go soon

Old Bourbons and Ranting War Horses.

Nothing but bed rock, hard shell Democracy will suit the "old party" in Oregon, but in some localities there are Democrats with brains enough to perceive the consequence of such a course The San Francisco Post, a Democratic paper, says

> If the Democratic party can only shove the old Bourbons and ranting war horses into the background, they may be able to defeat Grant in the coming election, and elect a conservative man who, upon all the live questions of the day, is in harmony with Democratic doctrines But when there are twenty-two Democrats in the lower House who will vote as they voted the other day against recognizing the amendments as valid, the future does not look very promising for them

In Oregon it wouldn't be healthy for the party to attempt to shove the old Bourbons and ranting war horses into the background, for these two classes constitute four fifths of the organization here And these four fifths, if they had a chance to vote against recognizing the Constitutional amendments as valid, would vote just as the twenty-two Democrats in Congress did the other day

Discussing our "relations with Spain" not a long time ago, the New York Tribune said

> We do not say that a collision between us and Spain in the Antilles is impossible. There are calamities as bad as war, and the worst of them all is for a nation to forget so far its prudent interests and its self respect as to submit uncomplainingly to insult and outrage In some way or other the brutal despotism of the volunteers in Cuba must be taken in hand by civilization We grievously doubt whether it is possible for Spain to apply the proper remedy

What, then, is to be done? If the "brutal despotism" has become unendurable, and Spain cannot or will not "apply the proper remedy," what course is there but interposition by other nations, and what would that be but war?

A California paper learns that Col. Hammond, late Superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad, was removed from his position because he was spending all the money he could get, in construction of high fences and other forms of protection against drifting snows along the road This winter the directors pay dear for this foolish act Every quarter of a million of dollars spent on sheds and fences would have saved them a million this winter. The foresight of the Central Pacific shames the niggard policy of the Union Pacific in a striking manner

A depreciatory article on the claims of the United States under the Treaty of Washington appears in the Herald That paper hopes that the United States will be moderate and not press its demands We venture to think that Irish Americans, who are a great force in the Democratic party, do not take this view

It is believed that the appropriation for the penitentiary building fund has been heavily overdrawn by the present State authorities. Such is the belief of those who are in the best position to judge of the matter "If it be true there will be a large deficiency bill to meet at the next session of the Legislature.

What Advertising Did

A French newspaper thus tells what advertising did

> Millaud the banker and newspaper speculator, who died recently in Paris, and who founded the Petit Journal which at one time had a circulation of nearly half a million copies was an enthusiastic believer in the advantages of advertising One day he had at his table nearly all the proprietors of the leading Paris dailies They conversed about advertising Millaud asserted that the most worthless article could be sold in great quantities, if liberally advertised. Emil de Girardin of La Presse, who was present, took issue with him on the subject "What will you bet," exclaimed Millaud, 'that I cannot sell in one week 10 000 francs' worth of the most common cabbage seed under the pretext that it will raise mammoth cabbage heads? All I have to do is to advertise it at once in a whole page insertion in the daily papers of the city' Girardin replied that he would give him a page in his paper for nothing if he should win the wager The other newspaper publishers agreed to do the same thing At the expiration of the week they inquired of Millaud how the cabbage seed had flourished He showed them that he had sold nearly twice as much as he promised, while orders were still pouring in but he said the joke must stop there, and no further orders would be filled

CRITICISING NEWSPAPERS —It is a very easy matter to criticise a newspaper, but to publish a live one so as to interest, amuse, and instruct the public is no small undertaking Those in this country who are so prone to find fault with every little item which does not suit their critical and exalted ideas should buy type, ink and paper and publish an organ of their own Let them try it for three months only and if it don't give them some new ideas of the newspaper business then we are no judge of human nature The conceit would be taken out of such individuals so quickly that they would hardly know what was the matter with them or whether they stood on their heads or feet [illegible]

The late Clerk of the New York State Senate, admits that he received a share of the profits of the State printing, but he claims that it was a present The fellow has been helping the Printer to heavy bills against the State, for which kindly assistance the printer pays him with a share of the stealings. This is bribery and corruption, and both Clerk and Printer should be sent to Sing Sing

In New York there has been Legislative investigation into the affairs of the Pacific Mail Company James D Smith one of the Directors and a broker, testified to buying 1[illegible] 000 shares of stock on account of President Stockwell, and that the company held 20 000 shares that had never been issued reducing the capital by three millions. He had borrowed as much as three hundred thousand dollars of the company on the security of Lake Shore stock, which had been repaid by order of another broker, and the Direc-

THE TERRITORIES

The Walla Walla Statesman insists on the organization of a second fire company for that place

The beef now exposed for sale at Walla Walla is said by the local papers to look as though the cattle were in the last stage of starvation before being brought to the slaughter house

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Union county, Oregon, incorporating a company for the purpose of building a w[illegible] lower or northern end of Grand Ronde valley to Walla Walla city.

Sheriff Thompson of Walla Walla, has arrested H Parker, the well known land agent, on three different charges, involving forgery and subornation of perjury. All the charges grow out of land transactions in which Parker has been engaged.

The last Legislature of Washington Territory overhauled the estray law and put it in a condition that is complained of The most objectionable feature of the law is that an estray cannot be posted until it has been running at the premises of the taker up one year consequently but few persons will ever go to the trouble of posting the animal During the late cold weather most of the estray animals died because no one felt justified in feeding them unless the animal had been on the premises one year

A National Educational Bill.

On the 9th inst an educational bill passed the lower House of Congress Following is a synopsis.

Section 1 provides that the net proceeds of the sale of public lands shall be forever set apart for the education of the people Nothing in the act shall limit the power of Congress over the public lands or interfere with the granting of bounty lands, nor with the homestead act

Section 2 provides that the Secretary of the Interior shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the net cash proceeds of the sales of the public lands

Section 3 provides for the manner in which the funds shall be invested

Section 4 provides for the apportionment of the fund to the various States and Territories for the first ten years—the distribution to be made according to the ratio of the illiteracy of the respective populations

Section 5 provides when and under what circumstances the first distribution shall be made

Section 6 provides that a certain portion of the funds received shall be expended, at the discretion of the Legislature, for the instruction of teachers for common schools

Section 7 states the condition under which each State and Territory shall be entitled to receive its share of every apportionment after the first year

Section 8 provides that the Commissioners of Education shall decide what States and Territories are entitled to receive apportionment, and what amount, but no moneys belonging to any State or Territory under this act shall be withheld for the reason that the laws thereof provide for separate schools for white and black children, or refusal to organize mixed schools

Section 9 provides for the distribution of the fund by the Superintendent of Public instruction to each State, Territory and district, and that the amount so appropriated shall be applied solely to the payment of teachers' wages

Section 10 provides the manner in which appropriations shall be drawn from the United States Treasury

Section 11 provides penalties for any misapplication or embezzlement of funds

Section 12 provides that the Circuit Court of the United States shall have exclusive jurisdiction of all offences against the provisions of this act

Section 13 provides that nothing contained in this act shall be construed so as to affect in any manner existing laws and regulations in regard to the adjustment and payments to the States upon their admission into the Union of five per centum of the net proceeds of the sale of public lands within their respective limits

UNFAMILIAR QUOTATIONS — We want a maid [illegible]

They called for the rent again this morning

The water pipes have burst

Jane has given warning

That poor child Minnie hasn't a thing to wear

The black beetles are worse than ever

I've heard from mamma and she will be very glad to come and stay with us

Cook says we must have a new [illegible] her grate

Shall [illegible] turning out of your room on Thursday, dear It sadly wants [illegible]

Henry there is some one ringing at the front door bell I know those servants have left the dining room window unfastened Do go down stairs and see if it's the policeman

Please ma'am, will you come up into the nursery and speak to Master Arthur? I can't do anything with him

Is it the drains?

Oh Fred! Sarah broke your pipe when she was dusting this morning

The drawing-room fire has been smoking all day

I wish those servants would come in

'Oh, ma'am! the cat has got the cold fowl

I cannot find my keys anywhere

'My best dress is completely ruined

'Don't you think my love the children look as if they wanted a change

'The sweeps are coming in the morning

'Have you any change?

Dinner will be three quarters of an hour late dear'

"The girls think we ought to give a dance

'Reginald's trowsers are up to his knees!

'There is not a drop of brandy in the house!'

BOUGHT A CORPSE.—Yesterday Mr A B Richardson sold at auction for the O ... N Co a lot of packages of freight which had remained on hand for more than a year uncalled for. As usual when there is a grab bag ... sale—a chance to buy something valuable it may be for a small sum of money the ... was ... attended by ... of bidders at ... the sale went off ... speculation as to what any ... package might contain and visions of pr ... floated through the minds of competing bidders and when a package which looked as though it ... have something valuable to it came to the block the bidding often ran high. A few people did make pretty good bargains others as must necessarily be the case in all games of chance found they had merely squandered their money. There was one particular case however which came from Idaho, that looked to be a promising case but which turned out to be a ghastly grim joke upon the purchaser. A family grocer on First street bought it at ... He took it home and opened it to see what fortune had done for him and was horrified to find that it contained nothing but a lot of human bones—the remains, as it was afterward ascertained of a Chinaman who went to Idaho and died there. His bones had been thus packed up and sent down here for shipment to China but for some unaccountable reason they were never called for. The green grocer of course had no use for a corpse and the problem was at once presented what was to be done with it. He might have a funeral but there were no mourners that he knew of, and he didn't feel like advertising for them beside there were no means of knowing precisely who was the original owner of the bones, and as funerals as an amusement don't generally draw well, the green grocer had to abandon that project as a means of getting his money back. W ... leave the question is still open as to what ... shall be made of the purchase. The ... has concluded, however never to attend another "old horse sale."

GETTING MONOTONOUS — The Police Commissioners held a meeting last evening, but transacted no business of importance. This is become the stereotyped report of the meetings of the Board. It seems to answer the purpose entirely but it is getting monotonous. Why won't the Board forbear to meet for a while and let us have a rest, till there is really something for them to do. They could save enough in a few months in that way to light the town clock.

THE SON OF A PROPHET?—Now comes the reporter of the Bulletin and says "The trains between this city and Oregon City will re commence running by Saturday at the farthest." That depends on the stage of water, we reckon inasmuch as the trains don't run now because they were not made with a view to submarine locomotion. Does our venerable friend desire us to understand that he has gone into the prophecy business?

MILITARY PARADE —There will be a parade to day of the Second Brigade of the Oregon Militia, in ... of Brigadier General O F Bell and staff, the Washington Guard, Emmet Guard and Montgomery Guard. The appearance on parade of the latter company is, however contingent upon ... ving in time their uniforms. The hour of the parade is unknown to us, but probably about 1 o'clock P M

THE HARRISBURG BRIDGE.—The Bulletin says "We learn from Mr Luther Superintendent of the West Side Railroad, who has just returned from Harrisburg, that the railroad bridge across the Wallamet river at that point was not damaged at all, notwithstanding the reports which had been telegraphed to this city."

TO BE REPEATED.—We hear that the entertainment at Multnomah Hall Tuesday evening was so well liked that it will be ... ted next Tuesday ... g. The farce of "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," afforded immense amusement, and the principal actor in it distinguished himself.

A BANK ROBBER.—Mr McAuliff, sheriff of Walla Walla county, left here yesterday morning with a prisoner named Shaffer, who had been guilty of robbing a monte bank at Walla Walla. McAuliff caught his man in Marion county.

THE O & C. RAILROAD.—It is reported that the passengers and mail ... of Tuesday, went ... to Eugene without detention. It is ex ... that the Santiam bridge will be ready for the passage of trains to-day.

VERY LOVELY.—The Washington Guard have their armory arranged for the ball this evening in truly elegant and beautiful style. It is worth while to step in and see how the boys do fix things up lovely.

FALLING.—The river continued to rise till yesterday morning, when it began to recede a trifle. The fall during the day was about one inch.

THE COLUMBIA.—A dispatch was received last ... g from the Cascades stating that the Columbia was rising very rapidly.

VACATION.—The Bishop Scott Grammar School will have vacation to-day in honor of the anniversary—Washington's birthday.

HEAVY RAIN.—A dispatch from Oakland states that the heaviest rain of the entire winter fell in the Umpqua Valley yesterday.

LOCAL BREVITIES

A mammoth panorama of "overland scenes" was sold for a song at the "old horse sale" yesterday.

The railroad ferryboat is still laid up. The ... one is making daily trips by way of the O S. N. Co's dock.

Trade and general business has been excessively dull since the trains stopped running. Items ... as hen's teeth.

The concert benefit to Prof Geo P Newell Tuesday evening, netted two hundred and eighty dollars. A good lift.

Several of our leading drinkers of "water straight" have gone to Salem to attend the temperance convention.

The Bulletin says "nervous people are getting vaccinated in order to be prepared for the small pox." They'd better prepare to avoid it.

It was a good day for Chinamen at the Court House yesterday. One was standing trial and the rest were there to see how he stood it.

There have been no trains on the Oregon Central for two or three days in consequence of the ... traction of an embankment beyond Rock creek.

The City Councilmen were silent as death last evening about $263 40 for lighting the town clock, though exceedingly liberal in some other matters.

Four Millions of Invalids

At the lowest computation there are never less than four millions of invalids in the United States. Of this number probably more than three-fifths have neglected the ordinary precautions necessary for the preservation of health and are suffering the punishment due to their carelessness. If the individuals who are now afflicted with biliousness, indigestion, rheumatism, intermittent fever, irregularity of the bowels, general debility, nervous disorders ... at the very first symptoms of indisposition invigorated, regulated and purified their systems with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters two thirds of them would at this moment be performing the active duties of life unannoyed by any ailment of the body or the mind

This assertion is made advisedly. It is founded on experience and is borne out by the testimony of a countless host of witnesses whose attestations cover almost every variety of disease and extend over a period of about twenty years. Of every thousand persons who take the Bitters as a preventive of the complaints above enumerated, seven-eighths escape them entirely, and of every thousand who are actually attacked and use the great Vegetable Tonic as a remedy three fourths are radically cured. These are not haphazard assertions but statistical facts. They are based upon the results of inquiries made by more than fifty thousand persons in various parts of the country and upon the letters of prominent citizens of every State. It might almost be said, of every county in the Union

LITTLE HOMES!
WE HAVE OBTAINED MANY TESTIMONIALS which appear in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN for the purpose of answering ... in relation to our LITTLE HOMES. We desire to show to strangers, through men of known integrity in this community that they are all we claim for them—cheap at present prices, and the speculation in them lies in the future growth of Portland in the building of Railroads and Bridges over the Willamette—which is merely a question of time—and in the fact that in less than one mile distant City blocks (200 feet square) are selling for from two to three thousand dollars, and in less than two-and-a-half miles (on a direct line) blocks are selling as high as $.00 0.0 per block! Just think of (1 1 50 per acre for land and 2½ miles distant, $800 000 per acre! New York city is over twenty miles in length and six miles wide and ... of other cities in the United States are half that long and quite as wide and if Portland becomes a metropolis she will require this land for business purposes. Thirty years ago we could have got ... a section of land where the business portion of Chicago now stands for $10 per acre—$40 for a five acre tract. Thirty years ago we could have purchased the town site of Portland for a Cayuse pony—but we didn't have the pony! Twenty years ago a solitary individual with neither money nor friends found himself in Portland without a red. He purchased a basket on tick, and filled it with oranges on the same terms and went to ... Twenty long eventful years have since elapsed. The Supply of Coal

[illegible] COAL [illegible]

A feeling of apprehension has of late years been growing up in the minds of thinking men of Great Britain, in regard to the duration of supply to be expected from their coal fields under the vast drain that is being made upon them This feeling has recently deepened into one of grave alarm England is the greatest manufacturing nation of the world Her greatness sprung from and depends upon her manufactures these, for the future depend almost wholly upon her continued supply of coal It is to the immense deposits of this fuel which underlie her surface, more than to any other cause, that she owes her supremacy as a manufacturing country

The annual production of her mines has at length become enormous and is regularly increasing Statistics show that the ratio of its increase is forty one per cent for over ten years This vast drain upon her coal beds, of course cannot always continue, for their supply is obviously limited Sir John Sinclair over seventy years ago contrasted the fixed extent of a coal field with the ever growing nature of the consumption of coal Careful estimates have been recently made of the probable amount of coal yet remaining in her beds within workable depth the results of which when viewed in connection with the ratio of increase in its consumption look truly alarming And we may be sure this feeling of uneasiness where such an authority as Prof Tyndall publicly declared that the destiny of England rested not in the hands of her statesmen but in those of her coal owners Exhaustion of her coal means to England the loss of her manufacturing and commercial supremacy and the [illegible] of her giant strength

Remembering our own vast coal [illegible] whose area compared with those of Great Britain is as 37 to 1—it is natural to congratulate ourselves that we occupy a country where a question of this kind cannot be raised The only question as regarding our coal fields is not how long before they may become exhausted but how long before they may be discovered and made accessible Year by year in various parts of the country new mines are being opened, and their contents made available by the building of railroads With the resources of Pennsylvania all are familiar it may not be amiss to glance at those of other sections The prairie surface of various parts of Illinois is underlaid with vast deposits of coal, Owing to the absence of timber on her prairies, this fuel is earlier a necessity to her inhabitants for household and manufacturing purposes than is the case in many of the newer States There is one section in the northwestern part of the State where the land is fertile, thickly peopled and the seat of a growing manufacturing interest, in which rich coal mines have been opened whose great want hitherto has been a railroad outlet This want has been recently met by the completion of the Peoria and Rock Island railway, which connects the navigable waters of the Illinois and Mississippi, and forms at the important cities Rock Island and Peoria, a junction with other roads, which in all directions connect it with the commercial and manufacturing centres of the country and with the great trans-continental trunk lines, thus providing an outlet for the rich yield of the mines and the products of this region Throughout the whole length of the road this section is underlaid with coal Some idea of the inexhaustible nature of these stores may be formed from a calculation in the report of Prof Wilbur Inspector of Mining Lands at Hannibal, Mo, who [illegible] that if 300,000 tons per year were mined from this field it would require 75 000 years to exhaust it This is, but one out of the many instances that might be [illegible] showing the inex[illegible] ble character of the deposits that have so long been waiting for our use

Jonathan Edwards

Edwards was pre-eminently a student Tall in person and having even a womanly look he was of delicate constitution He was, however, so temperate and methodical in his living that he was usually in good health, and able to give more time to study than most men Twelve or thirteen hours every day were commonly allotted to this So devoted was he to his work as a student that he was most unwilling to allow anything to disturb it Though he was careful to eat regular and at certain fixed hours, yet he would postpone his meals for a time if he was so [illegible] in study that the interruption of eating would interfere with the success of his thinking He was so miserly also in his craving for time, that he would leave the table before the rest of the family and retire to his room, they waiting for him to return again when they had finished their meal and [illegible] them from the table with the customary grace

Edwards was almost a thinking machine Wherever he was, wherever he went, his pen was with him as the means of preserving his thoughts, and if by chance he fail d to have it with him in his walks or rides, he would fasten pieces of paper to various parts of his clothing by means of pins and associate with each some train of thought or some important conclusion to be thus preserved until he could get to his ink and paper. So, also at night he would fasten pins into his bed curtains as the mementoes of his thoughts during his wakeful hours,

That a man thus thoughtful should yet be indifferent to many things of practical importance would not be strange Accordingly we are told that the care of his domestic and secular affairs was devolved entirely on his wife who happily, while of kindred spirit with him in many respects, and fitted to be his companion, was also capable of assuming the cares which were thus laid upon her It is said that Edwards did not know his own cows, nor even how many belonged to him About all the connection he had with them seems to have been involved in the act of driving them to and from pasture occasionally which he was willing to do for the sake of needful exercise A story is told in this connection which illustrates his obliviousness of small matters As he was going for the cows once a boy opened the gate for him with a respectful bow Edwards acknowledged the kindness and asked the boy whose son he was Noah Clark s boy was the reply A short time afterward on his return the same boy was at hand and opened the gate for him again Edwards again asked Whose boy are you? The same man s boy I was a quarter of an hour ago sir —Harper s Magazine

WONDERFUL IMPROVEMENTS IN FIREARMS

That s a pretty solid piece of oak said General Leggett, the Commissioner of Pensions picking up a stick sixteen inches thick through which there was a small and remarkably clean cut hole That hole was made by a rifle-ball and after making the hole as you see it here the same ball went through eight pine planks in all nine inches thick The oak you see has a knot when the ball came to that it was turned about ten degrees from a straight line and thence went straight on and through the pine This illustrates one of the most recent and at the same time most wonderful improvements in firearms The rifle from which the ball having such wonderful force was fired is supplied with extra chambers ranged along the barrel which are loaded and exploded one after another as the ball having received its first impulse passes them It is estimated that a ball shot from one of these rifles would go at least 2½ miles if it met with no obstacles Experiments with heavy artillery operating upon this principle have been made in England and the results [illegible]

Gold in New York 110¼

[illegible] and Legal Tender quotations 90c buying and 91 selling

It is reported that the vessels outside the Bar are the bark Coldstream from Liverpool with assorted merchandise to Messrs Janin & Rhodes and the bark H [illegible] [illegible] from San Francisco with general merchandise [illegible]

The bark [illegible] has finished [illegible] [illegible] of cargo

The bark W [illegible] foot is at present unable to [illegible] the [illegible] to discharge balance cargo—300 tons [illegible] When this is discharged she will be towed down [illegible] [illegible] where she will [illegible] cargo for San Francisco

Business of all kinds was dull to day Merchants [illegible] they have been unable to [illegible] invoices from the [illegible] for two days past which accounts for the stagnation in business

The following comparative statement of [illegible] Domestic Produce in San Francisco from July 1st to [illegible] 8th of the following year shows [illegible] that the estimated amount of Wheat [illegible] forward [illegible] the San Francisco market [illegible] exaggerated

	1871 2	1870-71	1869 0
Flour qr sks	348 489	371 694	54 279
Wheat sks	1 179 50	3 9? 905	5 14 4?
Barley sks	514 9?2	4?? ?29	6 0 ?0
Oats sks	?71 955	?? 253	240 350
Potatoes sks	489 01?	491 34?	4 0 0?0
Corn sks	? 335	34 ?39	?3 001
Rye, sks	6 867	? 617	? 361
Buckwheat sks	1 942	2 382	4 [illegible]
[illegible], sks	39 983	60 441	62 45
Bran, sks	38 407	43 8?	30 825
Hay, bales	219 269	201 826	163 800

In Flour and Wheat the receipts show a falling off but in Oats and Potatoes an increase while in Barley there is an increase over 1870-1 but in comparison with 1869-70 the receipts are a shade less

No one be he ever so blinded by prejudice but what will admit that our commercial relations and inland trade are rapidly increasing The stocks of goods carried by our leading jobbing and importing houses have been increased from 25 to 50 per cent over 1870, To substantiate this statement we need only cite the fact that two of our largest agricultural houses have been forced to procure larger buildings than before by at least 50 per cent to accommodate their increasing stocks Two of our large jobbing houses (Groceries) occupy larger buildings than in 1870 and find difficulty in accommodating their goods Two others of the large jobbing Grocery houses occupy more storage room in other buildings One of the large importing Hardware houses have for their Nails one a large cellar, capable of holding several thousand kegs One firm here, J Kohn & Co successors to [illegible] & Fishel, have coming a very heavy stock of Clothing Hats and [illegible] Goods with which they intend to open [illegible] in the above line a jobbing house The need of a well selected stock of Clothing and Furnishing Goods for jobbing has long been felt, and this movement will we are confident meet with success A German firm, Messrs A Moller & Co have recently opened here a jobbing and commission house Their connections are of the best, and we are promised by them direct shipments from Europe by next year A prominent Tobacco firm have added to their line of goods a very heavy and complete stock of Liquors The above does not constitute all the additions to our increased business but are sufficient to give a general idea of the increase Our foreign trade shows an equally gratifying increase, with an almost certainty of this year seeing it increase nearly if not fully double that of last year The vessels coming from the United Kingdom laden with assorted merchandise for this market will be increased fully 200 per cent over last year The number of vessels loaded with railroad iron from the United Kingdom will not be so large as in 1871 but the number from the Eastern States coming here with railroad iron will probably be larger than came from England last year Those of our merchants importing from the Eastern States will probably [illegible] and make all their shipments direct to this market instead of via San Francisco as heretofore, which will add materially to the volume of business with the [illegible]
